I live on an island, and the surrounding water plays a great part in my life. I love to watch the life of waves – big, small or absent – and they were the inspiration for this design.

Workflow

The sweater is made top-down in alternating rows of sc and dc except from the waves that are made in a combination of tr and sc.

The sweater is made using one thread of Arwetta except from the waves that are made with 2 threads of Tilia held together.

First make the rib edging for the neck opening, then the yoke.

Put the stitches for the sleeves on hold while you make the body, then make the sleeves.
